The Recolo Project

Hampshire and Isle of Wight's Stalking Intervention Service

OUR VALUES

 Patients & people first

 Partnership

 Respect

Recolo is a Latin word, to renew or to think again. Using psychology and occupational therapy, the project aims to address stalking behaviour – helping individuals to avoid re-offending.

Who are we?

The Recolo Project is a multi-disciplinary intervention service for individuals who are currently, or have recently, engaged in stalking behaviours.

Stalking is defined as 'a pattern of fixated and obsessive behaviour which is repeated, persistent, intrusive and causes fear of violence or engenders alarm and distress in the victim' (Suzy Lamplugh Trust, 2016).

The project works collaboratively alongside Hampshire Constabulary, Hampshire & IOW Probation Teams, and Aurora New Dawn (victim advocacy) as part of a Multi-Agency Stalking Intervention programme (MASIP).

The MASIP is an 18 month pilot, running until 1 March 2020, in which three areas (Hampshire, Cheshire & London) look to form multi-agency partnerships to test out intervention programmes for stalking perpetrators, with the aim of reducing recidivism. These pilots are co-ordinated by the Suzy Lamplugh Trust to share learning and best practice across the pilot schemes.

The Recolo Project is commissioned to reduce re-offending, maintain victim safety, and improve psychological wellbeing - through innovative consultation, assessment and intervention.

The project consists of a Consultant Forensic Psychiatrist, a Clinical Psychologist, a Forensic Psychologist, an Occupational Therapist and a Team Administrator.

The Recolo Project is one of three services within MASIP and focuses on providing direct intervention with perpetrators, as well consultancy and advice to those who work with them. It works alongside the other two services within MASIP, these being Aurora New Dawn (victim advocacy) and the Hampshire Stalking Clinic (which has an advisory function to police officers and other agencies investigating and managing stalking related crimes).

What services do we offer?

- Advice and consultation to teams and individuals
- Assessment of the stalking perpetrator
- Formulation of the stalking behaviour (which can be used to guide management)
- Psychological interventions
- Occupational therapy interventions
- Co-working with other services
- Signposting to other services.

The Recolo Project is unable to provide direct intervention to individuals currently under police investigation, but advice and consultation can be offered.
